

Structured Literacy Training Opportunities

Updated 4/15/2018

The National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) consistently finds that 35% of fourth graders in the United States are reading at a level that is below basic. Research has demonstrated that although dyslexia and related reading and language problems may originate with neurobiological differences, they are mainly treated with skilled teaching. Effective classroom instruction delivered by a knowledgeable teacher, especially in the early grades, can prevent or at least effectively address and limit the severity of reading and writing problems. The methods supported by research are explicit, systematic, cumulative, and multisensory in that they integrate listening, speaking, reading, and writing. They are also multilinguistic, as they directly teach the structure of language at all levels, including the speech sound system (phonology), the writing system (orthography), the structure of sentences (syntax), the meaningful parts of words (morphology), word and phrase meanings (semantics), and the organization of spoken and written discourse. The strategies emphasize planning, organization, attention to task, critical thinking, and self-management. (Except from 2018 KPS Executive Summary <https://app.box.com/s/21qdk2k1p3bnaqdfz1xy0v98j5yt11wk>)

IDA Knowledge and Practice Standards for Teachers of Reading \(KPS\) outlines the components of Structured Literacy and defines what all teachers of reading need to know and be able to do to teach all students to read proficiently. The International Dyslexia Association's Educator Training Initiatives (ETI) Committee has refined the Knowledge and Practice Standards (KPS) to bring greater specificity to how knowledge of the standards could be assessed in the context of coursework and how practice applications of Structured Literacy could be demonstrated in supervised practicum contexts.

In the summer of 2018, IDA will begin aligning educator preparation resources, including publications, webinars, and information briefs, with the KPS to support their use in pre-service and in-service educator preparation contexts.

The Center for Effective Reading Instruction (CERI), an affiliate of the International Dyslexia Association, issues certifications recognizing professionals with the knowledge and skills to teach individuals with dyslexia to read. There are three levels of certification: Certified Structured Literacy Teacher, Certified Dyslexia Practitioner, Certified Dyslexia Therapist. Educators present evidence of their having mastered the content of the KPS by earning a passing score on the Knowledge and Practice Examination of Effective Reading Instruction (K-PEERI) and for select certifications, passing scores or ratings on supervised practicum requirements. For more information about CERI certification, visit <https://effectivereading.org/>.

IDA encourages parents, administrators, and educators to learn more about effective literacy instruction and early intervention. IDA is in the process of reviewing and accrediting many teacher preparation programs for their alignment with the critical components of instruction as defined by the Standards. The following providers are accredited by IDA or have stipulated to IDA that they use structured, multisensory, alphabetic techniques. Professional Learning Units (PLUs) or CEU's are available for many of the following workshops. Please see Registration Information and contact the instructors/training organization directly should you have any questions.

KENDORE KINGDOM 2

This 3-day course gives teachers a deeper understanding of the Kendore Kingdom reading curriculum. The instructor will cover advanced comprehension, syntax, semantics, vocabulary, morphemes, prefixes, suffixes, and more. Participants will learn additional strategies for teaching fun, structured, research-based lessons using Orton-Gillingham methodologies. Materials will be provided. This course is required for Kendore Teacher Certification.

KENDORE KINGDOM MULTISENSORY SPELLING

During this one-day workshop, we teach 12 unforgettable rules that will remove, “that’s just something you have to memorize” from your lexicon. These simple rules are presented in a fun, “clock face” story format and enable students to successfully spell thousands of words. Make memorizing word lists a thing of the past and leave with strategies and materials you can use immediately with students of any age.

WORD PLAY MULTISENSORY VOCABULARY

A deep and rich vocabulary is strongly correlated with proficiency in reading and success in school and life. Word Play Vocabulary Workshop provides a clear and effective methodology for teaching vocabulary in the classroom. Participants will learn about the importance of vocabulary instruction and will discover ways to incorporate vocabulary activities across the curriculum. We will explore how to teach morphology as a way to unlock the meaning of thousands of words and as an alternative to rote memorization. Teachers will receive lessons and materials to implement instruction in the classroom. The Kendore Vocabulary workshop is lively and engaging and supports multisensory teaching methods. Appropriate for grades 2-8.

WILSON JUST WORDS TRAINING

Just Words is a highly explicit, multisensory decoding and spelling program for students in grades 4–12 and adults who have mild to moderate gaps in their decoding and spelling proficiency but do not require intensive intervention. The Just Words curriculum provides a sophisticated study of word structure appropriate for students beyond the elementary grades. It provides direct and explicit teaching of “how English works” for both decoding and spelling automaticity. This 10-hour workshop provides the practice and guidance needed to effectively begin teaching the Wilson Just Words curriculum.

Course Objectives

- Understand the research base of the why and how of Just Words instruction.
- Understand characteristics of a student who is appropriate for a Just Words class.
- Understand the principles of instruction: explicit, sequential and cumulative instruction that incorporates review, repetition, feedback, and multisensory instruction to engage multiple learning modalities.
- Identify the skills taught in Just Words: word study (phonemic awareness, six basic syllable types in English, spelling rules, common Latin roots, prefixes, and suffixes), vocabulary study, and high frequency words.
- Use the Instructor Manual’s Unit structure and materials, prepare a daily learning plan, and practice lesson activity procedures.
- Administer Progress Checks at the beginning of each Unit and Unit Tests at the end in order to assess students’ progress.

ORTON-GILLINGHAM ASSOCIATE LEVEL COURSE
(MORNINGS September 2018 – May 2019)

Formerly known as Teacher Training I, the Orton-Gillingham Associate Level Class is a comprehensive, nine-month class. The class advances the understanding of specific procedures of the O-G Approach and the underlying principles in teaching reading, spelling and vocabulary. The class addresses:

- Dyslexia and related brain research
- General history and structure of the English language
- Phonological awareness
- Sound/symbol relationships for reading and spelling
- Six syllable types and seven ways to divide words into syllables
- Anglo-Saxon, Latin, and Greek word parts
- Spelling rules and generalizations
- "Learned" or non-phonetic words
- Advanced decoding skills
- Scope/sequence and lesson planning
- Teaching strategies and development of teaching materials
